CFUW Haliburton chapter increases community impact

AMANDA DUNCOMBE-LEE
Special to County Life

For nearly 100 years, the Canadian Federation of University Women has been advocating for women. Founded in 1919 by female scholars, the CFUW has strived to promote equality, public education, social justice, fellowship and lifelong learning for women and girls.

The CFUW Haliburton Highlands is one of more than 100 CFUW member clubs in the country whose work is supported by the national federation. The local chapter is approaching its 15th anniversary and has swelled to a record 68 members.

Wendy Hampson, publicity convener for the CFUW-HH, thinks increased community involvement may be behind the boost in numbers. In the last year alone, the CFUW-HH has hosted six speakers, held a conference about women's empowerment in northern communities, undertook an annual major fundraiser, awarded two bursaries to deserving high school and post-secondary students, and made several donations to local organizations.

"We've been donating more in the community and are more involved in community activities," said Hampson. "People are starting to recognize we are doing more … that we have an advocacy purpose."

Hampson first became involved with the organization when she retired to Haliburton from Sudbury in 2012.

"When I joined, I made instant, lifelong friendships, and decided I wanted to help out and give back," recalled Hampson. "It's really a great way to get to know other people … and you have something to look forward to every month, to just hobnob, chat and compare notes."

The CFUW-HH meets every third Thursday of the month, from September to June, at Haliburton School of Art + Design (Fleming College) at 7 p.m. Membership cost is $85 annually and is "open to all women who are interested in the mandate of CFUW and interested in learning, having fun and meeting other women," said Hampton. "Meetings are in the evenings, so we are flexible. One of our goals is to expand more into working women and school-aged girls."

She noted that many women are already very busy and looking for something to be "gently involved in, that doesn't require a massive commitment."

Members have the option to join special interest groups – including cuisine, hiking, reading, bridge, games, knitting, and social accountability. Hampson notes that the CFUW-HH is always looking for new ideas for the interest groups. The club also enjoys the lineup of speakers they have every year, some who are internationally renowned.

In lieu of their September meeting, the CFUW-HH is participating in a two-day advocacy initiative on sexual violence against women along with Fleming College, Kawartha Sexual Assault Centre, YWCA - Peterborough and Haliburton and Visible Voices Open Art Studio.

Chef Andy Oh serves up japchae (glass noodles) and salad to CFUW members in this file photo from January. The group is active in the community, bringing attention to important issues. /JENN WATT Staff

On Wednesday, Sept. 19 at 6 p.m. CFUW-HH will be hosting a movie night featuring the documentary Better Man at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion, followed by a panel discussion. The following night the club will meet at Head Lake Park for Take Back the Night march, with Visible Voices bringing supplies to make signs. Both events are free and open to the public.

The first official meeting of CFUW-HH will be on Thursday, Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. The meeting is open to the public and there will be a welcome table for those interested in signing up.

"People can come and listen to the speaker and get a sense of what it's all about," said Hampson.

The CFUW is approaching its 100th anniversary in 2019, and the Haliburton chapter will soon be releasing plans to celebrate this impressive occasion.

Updates on the CFUW-HH's activities, meetings and events can be found on their website, http://www.cfuwhh.ca.

Water Levels Matter!

Coalition for Equitable Water Flow

Summer 2018

Open Letter to: Candidates in the 2018 Municipal Elections for:
Algonquin Highlands; Dysart et al; Havelock-Belmont-Methuen;
Highlands East; Minden Hills; North Kawartha; and Trent Lakes.

Issues facing Voters in the Upper Trent River Watershed as Identified by the Coalition for Equitable Water Flow

The Coalition believes there is an opportunity for municipalities to take further action and to demonstrate continuing support on a range of water management issues. As a candidate for municipal office you are invited to respond to the following questions so that we can advise our membership with regard to your position, and your personal commitment on these issues.

Questions to Candidates from the Coalition

1. Do you agree that municipalities have a role to play in working to improve water management in the Haliburton Sector of the Trent River watershed? If so, are you personally committed to continued municipal support for the Upper Trent Water Management Partnership? (see background information on next page).

2. What would you do to strengthen the flood control and mitigation provisions of your municipality's Official Plan? For example, would you support initiatives to provide better flood plain mapping and flood mitigation planning as the basis for decision-making?

3. Do you agree that municipal governments should work with local lake associations, the Trent Severn Waterway (TSW) and the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry (MNRF) to further improve water management operations on reservoir and flow-through lakes and the connecting rivers? For example, are you in favour of:
   a. urging water conservation to support recreational use of the reservoir lakes; and
   b. the acquisition of lake-specific data with regard to the location and depth of trout spawning beds to improve and protect fish habitat?

Please note that a summary of responses will be posted at www.cewf.ca starting in early September.

When life gives you apples ...

Organizers of the Apple Sauce Project are once again collecting the county's apples and making it into sauce. The community initiative takes unused apples from local trees, transforms them into sauce, freezes it and distributes it to seniors and families in need.

Anyone who wants to donate apples grown locally is asked to get in touch with organizers. They're also looking for volunteers to pick apples and others to make the sauce.

Donate apples

Donations can be dropped off in Haliburton Village:

SIRCH Central, 2 Victoria St. Haliburton (next to the laundromat)

Sept. 18 and 19 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. 705-457-1742

Pick apples

To volunteer to pick apples during the week of Sept. 17, call and leave a message: Haliburton – Nancy Brownsberger at 705-457-2941 ext. 2926

Make apple sauce

Volunteers will process the apples into apple sauce on Tuesday, Sept. 25 and Wednesday, Sept. 26 at the SIRCH Community Kitchen in the village of Haliburton. Contact Jay McIvor at SIRCH Central 705-457-1742 to help.

The apple sauce is distributed with Meals on Wheels, SIRCH Frozen Meals and through local food banks.

The Apple Sauce Project is a partnership with Haliburton County FoodNet, SIRCH, HHHS Community Support Services Division, Minden Community Food Centre, Highlands East Community Cooks, HKPR District Health Unit, Municipality of Dysart et al, The Municipality of Highlands East, Entrée Plus, Haliburton County Echo and people like you who donate their apples or time!

Health unit dietitian Rosie Kadwell stands in front of an apple tree near the Haliburton library branch. Kadwell is reminding the public of this year's Apple Sauce Project. Community partners are teaming up to organize apple donations, picking and processing to make sauce. The apple sauce is to be distributed with Meals on Wheels and SIRCH Frozen Meals and through local food banks. /DARREN LUM Staff

Concert series to present wind quintet

On Sunday, Sept. 30, the Haliburton Concert Series will continue the celebration of its 40th season of concerts by presenting the unique wind quintet Pentaèdre.

The quintet is comprised of flute, clarinet, oboe, horn, and bassoon. The five artist-musicians are widely applauded for the technique, precision, and colour they bring to every performance. The organizers were wowed when the quintet performed in Haliburton seven years ago, and they're thrilled that Pentaèdre is returning. The music they will perform will include works by Bach, Ligeti, and Maslanka.

The concert will take place in the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion in the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School in Haliburton village at 2:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served at intermission, and there will be an opportunity to speak with the musicians following the concert. CDs will be for sale.

Tickets are $30 for adults and $10 for students and are available from Fred Shuttleworth at 705-455-9060 or fred.ann.shuttleworth@gmail.com.

Full details are available on our website: www.haliburtoncs.blogspot.ca.

Top 10 signs you should turn your furnace on

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

IF YOU ARE like me – meaning cheap – you probably wait till the last minute to turn your furnace on. After all, a little cold air is good for the constitution, right?

The question most people ask is how do you know it's time to turn on your furnace? I mean, other than your loved ones telling you.

Here are 10 indicators that it's time to turn your furnace on.

1. The kids are sticking their hands in the refrigerator to warm them up.
2. Mice and cats are snuggling together to share body heat.
3. The kids are building a snowman – between you and the TV.
4. Icebergs are making doing dishes hazardous.
5. It's not your birthday and there are still 56 candles in the cake.
6. Your budgie wants to fly south.
7. You don't have to ask who let one go.
8. It takes 20 minutes to scrape off the kitchen window.
9. You can hang a side of beef in the basement.
10. You realize what you thought was a woodpecker is merely chattering teeth.

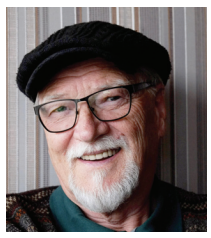
From Zurich to Minden



GEORGE FARRELL
On Arts/Culture

I'M INTERESTED in people who can help to influence our culture, and Rita Germann is such a person. Born in Zurich, shortly after the end of the Second World War, Germann grew up on a mountain farm, above the tree line, near a village called Sternenberg. It was hard in those days for women in Switzerland to get a higher education (women didn't get to vote until 1971), and her father figured she'd marry a farmer, like himself. But Germann, one of eight children, managed to break with tradition and get her degree in home economics.

She taught home economics in Zurich, and she had a passion for knowledge. She read books; lots of them. Her reading led Germann to become interested in Canada's 100th birthday, and she also followed the flag debate ardently. She liked the final decision of a red maple leaf on a white field because she likened it to Switzerland's red cross on a white field. She saw that women were more liberated in Canada, and she became so intrigued by Expo 67 in Montreal that she obtained a leave of absence from her teaching job, and came to Canada, even though she had no intention of staying here.

When Germann was picking up her luggage at the airport carousel she met a Swiss man, Arnold Germann, and just 11 months later, on June 1, 1968, they were married. One day later the honeymooners found themselves travelling up Highway 35. They stayed at Ox Narrows Lodge, and loved this area so much that they made a pact to return here. Arnold's parents had immigrated to Canada years before and Rita and Arnold ended up settling in Grimsby. They purchased Thornfield Hall, built in 1876. It was a stately house in the Italian Renaissance style, and they set about restoring it to its former glory.

That experience was a life-changer for Rita. "I have to acknowledge that the restoration of Thornfield Hall made me what I am today," Germann said. The restoration took 20 years, and through the process she became "wrapped up in restoration, renovation and rehabilitation." But above and beyond Thornfield Hall she became involved in projects with the Grimsby Historical Society, where she wrote the newsletter; the Historic Board of Hamilton, which oversaw restoration on Dundurn Castle, a historic neoclassical mansion; and the Toronto Historic Association where she contributed her knowledge to Montgomery Inn in Etobicoke, which is a 1840's-era Georgian inn, operated as a museum by Toronto Cultural Services.

In 1977 Germann learned needlepoint at the Black Creek Pioneer Village in Toronto, and along the way she also learned how to make period costumes through the Costume Society of Ontario. Meanwhile, for 22 years, Arnold was working for the White Motor Corporation which made Western Star and Freightliner Trucks. The couple somehow found the time to raise a son, Thomas, who is an officer at Camp Borden.

Eventually Rita and Arnold realized that they weren't running Thornfield Hall, it was running them. So in 1988 they decided to sell and move to the Niagara peninsula where they built a house in a vineyard. They were vintners for 13 years. But in 2001 Arnold developed heart problems and became seriously ill. He passed away in 2011. "After 45 years I was totally devastated," Germann said.

For the next four years Rita lived in St. Catharines. Then in 2015, an old friend of Arnold's talked her into taking a trip across Canada, which took a whole year. On her return in 2016, Germann bought a house in Gelert. The main reason for her move to Gelert "was because of the Minden Hills Museum and Heritage Village," she explained. She is a volunteer at the museum and says that in her opinion "It's the crown jewel of Minden that not enough people know about. It's unique in Ontario because unlike other heritage villages they are all local buildings. When I step into the Bowron House I feel like I'm coming home. I've come full circle, and it's like when I was in Switzerland, because I get to speak to people from all over the world."

Rita Germann is fluent in five languages, so she's a great ambassador for the Minden Hills Cultural Centre, of which the Heritage Village and Museum are a part. She really admires the work done by Laurie Carmount the cultural centre curator, and by Ruth O'Connell, the curatorial assistant at the museum. Presently Germann is working with O'Connell on the formation of an effective knitting group, while also helping her in creating proper period costumes for the guides at the museum and heritage village to wear. "If I can bring some of my fibre arts experience here it would fit nicely into the plans for the museum," she said.

As if all that wasn't enough Germann says that she wants to apply for a position on the Minden Hills Cultural Centre Advisory Committee.

Rita Germann is one dynamic woman, who, when she sets her mind to it, makes things happen; and the committee, in my opinion, would be stronger with her inclusion.

Start your site plans for spring this fall

The 50 Million Tree Program works with landowners to finance and plan tree planting

Thinking of tree planting next spring? Fall planning brings spring planting! Forests Ontario and its planting partners want to remind landowners that fall is the most opportune time for planning next spring's planting activities.

Tree planting is an excellent way to increase the value of your property and make a positive contribution to environmental health. Forests Ontario offers funding assistance for tree planting through the 50 Million Tree Program (50MTP), providing the benefits of tree planting at a reduced cost. Eligible landowners may receive from 75 to 90 per cent coverage of total planting costs through the program.

The 50MTP has been designed to make the tree planting process as easy as possible for landowners. If your property has at least one hectare (2.5 acres) of open land available for tree planting, all you have to do is register. A Forests Ontario representative or planting agency will contact you to confirm your eligibility and determine the best approach for you and your property. Whether you're interested in improving your farming operation, creating wildlife habitat, increasing your property value, leaving a legacy for future generations, or helping to fight climate change, planting through the 50MTP can help you achieve your goals.

To ensure a successful planting, careful site planning must be done beforehand. "The earlier the better," advises Mark McDermid, field advisor with Forests Ontario. According to McDermid, fall is the ideal time to schedule a site visit, when planting partners are best able to assess site conditions and make any necessary preparations – for example, weed management or pest control. There is also a wider variety of species to choose from in the fall. "It's important to get in line early," explains McDermid. "There are only a certain number of tree nurseries and they each have a limited amount of stock. The sooner you know the number and species of trees you need, the more likely you are to get them." This is especially true if you want to plant hardwoods, as they sell out early.

McDermid believes the key to the 50MTP's success lies in its full-service nature, which takes the pressures of tree planting off landowners. "The program connects landowners to professionals who help to create and implement site plans; purchase, transport, and plant trees; and conduct follow-ups after the planting," he explains. Most importantly though, field advisors and planting partners are dedicated to ensuring the long-term survivability of the trees they put in the ground.

Through the 50MTP, you are able to improve your property while helping the Government of Ontario reach its goal of planting 50 million trees by 2025. To learn more about this program, visit us online at www.forestsontario.ca or contact forestry program manager, Stephanie Burns, at 1-877-646-1193 ext. 222 or info@forestsontario.ca.

Apply this fall to begin planting next spring.

Award-winning Canadian novelist named writer in residence

JENN WATT
County Life Editor

Writing has been author Frances Itani's life's work. It has taken her around the world and into the inner worlds of her characters who occupy the pages of 17 books, including novels, short stories and children's books. She is a member of the Order of Canada, has been awarded the Commonwealth Writer's Prize, was shortlisted for the International IMPAC Dublin Literary Award, has won the CBC Literary Award (three times) and was a finalist for the Scotiabank Giller Prize.

And now writing is bringing Itani to Haliburton County as the arts council's writer in residence from Oct. 11 to 25.

Renee Woltz, treasurer at the Arts Council ~ Haliburton Highlands, said the residency will benefit writers in the community and students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

"The committee is so pleased to be able to bring such a high calibre writer to our community. We're especially pleased that the scheduled events will benefit members of the public, writers in the community and students at the high school," she said in press release.

The author of many bestselling books including Requiem, Tell, Deafening, Remembering the Bones and, most recently, That's My Baby, will be bringing her expertise and love of the writing process to two special events.

Her one-day workshop on Saturday, Oct. 13 is called "Asking the Right Questions to Keep Your Writing Alive."

"I'll be discussing important basics about craft. I'll also focus on ways to strengthen one's work," Itani said in response to questions via email.

There is space for 20 students in the workshop, which is open to writers of varying backgrounds and experience levels, she said.

"Hopefully, at the end of our time together, participants will be inspired to go home and write! Overall, I hope to impart some of the knowledge I have acquired over the past 45 years as a writer."

Itani will also be the featured speaker at a special evening event: An Evening with Frances Itani.

"I'll discuss my life as a writer and will talk about journeys taken through the creation of several of my books. I will also be interviewed during the evening and I plan to read a short excerpt from one of my novels. There will be time for a Q&A with the audience, an exchange I always enjoy."

Itani began her career as a nurse – an occupation she enjoyed and she still draws upon for inspiration in her writing. She worked at Montreal General Hospital as an RN before teaching nursing at university.

"I stopped working as a nurse when my first child was born and it was then that I returned to university to work on a BA, followed by a masters degree in English and psychology," she said.

While taking a writing course at the University of Alberta, Itani met renowned Canadian writer W.O. Mitchell, leading to a long friendship.

"He and his wife Merna often visited our family wherever we happened to be living in the world, and we sometimes travelled together and always stayed in touch," she said. "We had a good deal of fun over the years, and I miss them both very much."

The author's world travels have often led to Haliburton, where her daughter lives with her family. She's often come to the Highlands to watch her granddaughters at their track events, dance performances and music recitals, but has also visited local artists' studios, the farmers' market, and once visited the Minden library branch promoting her book, Requiem.

This residency, however, came to her through her Toronto-based agent.

"A note was sent to the agency in hopes that word would be put out among many writers," Itani said. "I was selected and when I let my daughter and her family know about the position, they were all surprised and delighted."

Aside from the workshop, private writing consultations and public evening event, the author will also spend time working on her own projects.

"I'm working on two novels. One is set in 2018 and involves six characters, none of whom know one another at the outset of the story," she said. "The second is an historical fiction about a woman of science who was born during the late 19th century."

Both books are due out in the next few years.

Writing is always a challenge, requiring discipline and focus, Itani said. Curiosity and imagination fuel her work.

"How does one make sense of what is around us? The human condition? Chaos to art? How do people maintain or regain their balance after being knocked over by life? No society lives without story, without philosophy, without art. It is the writer's job – my job – to tell story."

An Evening With Frances Itani is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 12 at the Great Hall at Fleming College in Haliburton. Refreshments at 6:30, presentation at 7 p.m. Admission is by donation, with a suggested donation of $10.

Asking the Right Questions to Keep Your Writing Alive, a one-day workshop, is to be held Saturday, Oct. 13 with private feedback sessions scheduled between Oct. 15 and 17. The subsidized cost of the workshop is $50 and the private feedback session is $30. Two bursary positions are available for the workshop and feedback session. You must apply to be considered for the bursary.

The writer in residence program is supported by Haliburton County Development Corporation and the Haliburton Highlands Writers and Editors Network.

Fuel for Warmth preparing for another winter

After a hot summer and more warm weather to come it may seem a little early to be thinking about winter. But that's exactly what Fuel for Warmth is doing.

Since the winter of 2008/2009 when Joanne Barnes originated this service, the first of its kind in the Highlands, Fuel for Warmth has led the way in helping those in need of fuel during our bitter winter months.

The service offers help throughout Haliburton County thanks to the volunteers and non-paid staff who manage this program. Ninety-five per cent of all monies raised goes directly to those in need, providing access to fuel oil, propane, wood and wood pellets. Administration costs are always kept to a minimum. In an age when donors are concerned about their donations getting to those in need, Fuel for Warmth can point with pride to their record of service and fiscal management. Fuel for Warmth does not receive any government funding.

Fuel for Warmth is a registered charity and, as such, abides by the reporting requirements of the CRA. Their treasurer, Lorne McNeil, is a chartered professional accountant, and he performs the annual audits of all expenditures, ensuring full CRA compliance. Community advisors include Scotty Morrison, Mike Jaycock and Sharon Foster.

The organization uses the rigorous application and qualification process used by the Minden Food Bank. All payments for fuel are made directly to fuel suppliers on behalf of the clients. This ensures that only those in need are approved for help.

This year Fuel for Warmth is planning to purchase a dump trailer. This will make the delivery of wood more efficient for clients requesting that fuel source. Thanks to a generous donation they are finally able to make this purchase.

For almost 10 years, Fuel for Warmth has been at the forefront in providing clients short-term, emergency relief from heating fuel shortages. Joanne Barnes says, "no one should have to choose between fuel and food."

Nov. 24, the Highlands Christmas Shindig, a family-oriented Christmas variety show at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion will once again raise money for this important cause. Thanks to the generous support of sponsors and attendees Fuel for Warmth is meeting the ongoing need of financially strapped families, children and seniors here in the Haliburton Highlands.

Jennie, a single mom, with two school-age children, says, "without the help of Fuel for Warmth my children and I would have been in real trouble last winter. Their help was a godsend."

For more information contact Joanne Barnes at 705-286-6838 or after hours for an emergency 705-854-9208.

TRANSPORTATION:

Communities across Haliburton County recognize the need for and value of public transit. Without public transportation employers can not find employees, seniors stay at home, youth can not participate in school activities and we increase our release of greenhouse gases. The County has contracted for a plan to implement the shared booked ride model proposed by the Transportation Task Force. For more information go to http//transportationhaliburtoncounty.ca

If you are elected, will you commit to implementing an operating transit system by the end of your 4 year term?

Over the coming weeks, follow this space in County Life, as we share the questions we're asking would-be Mayors, Deputy Mayors, and Councillors. Survey results will be posted to www.environmenthaliburton.org/ mid-September.

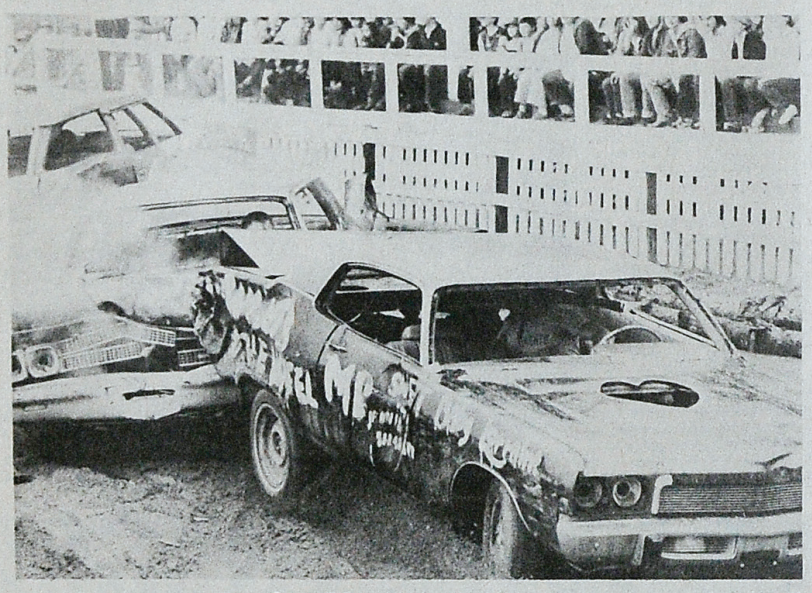
Rain dampens Kinmount Fair

But spectators came dressed for the miserable weather and managed to enjoy the events and attractions all the same



Demolition drivers in action

The spectators wore rubber boots and rain coats. They carried umbrellas and they hid under canvas canopies. But despite the rain and drizzle Saturday and Sunday, the Kinmount fair was still "the show where you get your money's worth".

The grounds were drenched and crowds flocked to the dry safety of the grandstand while others decided to brave the weather to take in all the events. The ever-popular steam engines and sawmill drew spectators and antique cars added to the old-time attractions Saturday.

Good food was abundant at every corner and for the health concious, the Kinmount United Church Women served a delicious beef dinner.

Exhibitors entered hundreds of classes from livestock judging and horse drawing to the best collection of jams and the best apple pie competition.

One of the traditional highlights of the fair, Saturday, was the heavy horse draw. Joe McFeeters, of Fenelon Falls, took first in the competition; Mac McGillivray, of Cardiff, was second, LeRoy Nesbitt, of Minden, was third; Dennis Stewart, of Woodville, fourth, Ingram Wessell, of Norland, fifth and George McLean, Little Britain, was sixth.

In the exotic cattle class Brittania Simmental Farms, Dunsford, won six firsts. John Sims, of Cameron, also won six firsts in the short horned cattle, winning every category in the class.

In the Hereford class, the competition was keen as firsts went to five different owners. Ely Jones, Cameron, took home two firsts, Lois Batty, Norland, also won two firsts as did G. MacGregor, of Little Britain. Carl Webster, of Cameron, won a

Terry Fox Run to get underway at 1 p.m. Sunday

The first annual Terry Fox Run in Haliburton County gets underway this Sunday at 1 p.m. in front of the Haliburton Highlands Squash Club in Haliburton Village.

Pledge sheets for the run are going fast, and indications are that the event will raise a substantial amount of money for cancer research.

The run, which is being held in conjunction with hundreds of others across the province, has been officially approved by the Canadian Cancer Society, the Canadian Track and Field Association, Fitness and Amateur Sport Canada, and the Four Seasons Hotels, sponsors of the national 'Terry Fox Run' program.

While many participants will elect to run or jog over the official 10 kilometre distance, the 'Run' is not a race, and participants may elect to walk the distance at their leisure.

The route will skirt the shores of Head Lake to Glebe Park, thence along Harmony Road to Highway 519, and north to the Roberts Farm. The course will then head eastward to link up with the Harburn Road, which will bring participants back into the Village.

Pledge sheets for the event are available at chartered banks in Haliburton and Minden, the Haliburton County Echo office, and at Northland Surplus in Minden.

Why not pick one up if you haven't already and make it a point to take part in the official 'Terry Fox Run' for the Marathon of Hope.

Speech pathologist hired

Local youngsters will have access to a speech pathologist this year under a program approved last week by the Haliburton County Board of Education.

The board has agreed to share the cost of the pathologist's services jointly with the area health unit and Ross Memorial Hospital, where the pathologist is based.

The pathologist is expected to diagnose speech problems, plan individual programs to be carried out by a part time

Tuesday was the first day back to school and although the thought of another year in class might not have pleased the students, they were glad to be with their friends. At Victoria Street school, Kendra Curry, Jenny Debes and Shannon Moore were having fun before classes began.

Day 13 and still it rains

Bleak weather sets modern day record, but rainfall less than in surrounding areas

A downpour Tuesday morning marked the thirteenth day of rain in Haliburton County, a modern day record for the end of summer period.

But while the grey skies and incessant rain have put a damper on the end of summer, local residents and cottagers could count themselves lucky to have escaped the heavy rains which caused havoc in Muskoka over the same period.

Rainfall over the 12 day period between Thursday, August 27, and Monday, September 7, totalled 64.8 mm or about two and a half inches. In Muskoka, where it also rained every day, the downpours were much heavier, totalling about 165 mm, or more than six inches.

Rainfall was also heavier in surrounding areas to the north, south and east over the last 12 days, as Peterborough, North Bay and Ottawa recorded more that 100 mm of precipitation.

While the total rainfall did not even come close to setting a record, (some 122.4 mm fell during the same period last year, for example), the clouds and rain kept humidity above 80 per cent for the entire 12 day period, which is a record, according to area meteorologist Jim Elstone.

Daily rainfall for extended periods is not an uncommon occurence in Haliburton County, records show, but those periods are not usually recorded in late August and early September.

In 1901 it rained daily from May 29 through June 9. In 1919, grey skies and rainfall prevailed between August 16 and August 27. And in 1892, there were a record 16 straight days of rain between August 1 and August 16.

The last time it rained 12 consecutive days in August and/or September was 1892. As recently as 1979 rain fell for 13 consecutive days, but it happened in late October and early November, when it seemed less out of keeping with the season.

An oddity of the recent bleak weather is that many of the rainstorms were isolated, dampening one community or lake area while others escaped a particular cloud's path.

And if you think things could hardly have been worse, be thankful you don't live on Kushog Lake, where, by some quirk of nature, rainfall was markedly heavier over the last 13 days than it was in other parts of the county.

Mediator hears board, teachers

Some issues settled, but several yet to be resolved

Mediation aimed at helping the Haliburton County Board of Education and its secondary school teachers reach a 1981-82 contract settlement will continue after an initial session August 31 brought progress on a number of issues.

Board negotiating committee chairman Cheryl Murdock said the two sides "got a lot of matters straightened away" in a meeting last Monday with provincially appointed mediator Eric Runacres.

Murdock described the session, which stretched into the early hours of the morning, as "quite productive", although she noted that there is "still a long way to go yet."

Under an agreement between the board and the teachers, no details on issues or demands are revealed until a settlement is reached.

A second mediation meeting between the two sides is set for next Tuesday, September 15.

Board moves to reappoint trustee who lost seat for non attendance

Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone's representative to the Haliburton County Board of Education has been reinstated to the seat he lost in June.

David MacDonald was re-

One of the four Dysart et al seats on the board remains empty following the resignation in June of Earl Cooper. A committee of the board is expected to recommend a replacement for Cooper at the den trustee Lloyd Johnston has also indicated that he will resign his seat once negotiations with the secondary school teachers are concluded.
